The GDIB Newsletter
For: Expert Panelists, Users, and Others Interested in the GDIB
Editor: GDIB Co-author Julie O’Mara

Issue: 25 April 2017

The GDIB—Global Diversity and Inclusion Benchmarks: Standards for Organizations Around the World—helps organizations of all sizes, in a variety of sectors and industries, using a variety of approaches to D&I work to achieve high-quality D&I outcomes. First published in 2006, the 2016 edition is authored by Julie O’Mara, Alan Richter, Ph.D., and 95 Expert Panelists. It is sponsored by The Diversity Collegium, a nonprofit organization dedicated to advancing the field of diversity and inclusion through think tank dialogues, symposia, research, and publications. The GDIB is free and may be downloaded at http://diversitycollegium.org/globalbenchmarks.php Check regularly for more information and new User Tools.

Our Belonging Needs
REFLECTIONS ON BEING FACE-TO-FACE WITH D&I ADVOCATES

“When are you doing this again?” “Wow. The energy here is astounding.” “Thank you so much for making this event happen ... oh, and for the GDIB, too.” “It’s wonderful to be with so many thoughtful, dedicated, like-minded people.” These are just a few of the comments voiced at the April 12th GDIB launch event held in San Francisco (see links to video and photos below, page 6). We’ve heard similar comments at the Forum on Workplace Inclusion Conference (see page 5) and other GDIB launch events. Yes – we do need to keep meeting like this!!!! Planning face-to-face events is hard work. It’s expensive. Time-consuming. Did we say it’s expensive, hard work, time-consuming? But the contagious atmosphere, the live, in-person social interactions that foster the strong feeling of belonging, and acknowledgement of the challenges for inclusion around the world are enormous right now. We need the face-to-face opportunities to share our spirit and energies, not to mention share all that we are learning. We need to work across the many approaches to our work: compliance, competence, dignity, organization development, social justice. We need to leverage the intersections across our diversity dimensions and borders. To all of you who can: please reach out, convene events, bring us all together — By GDIB Expert Panelist, Sidalia (Sid) G. Reel and GDIB Co-Author Julie O’Mara.

ACTIONS TO HELP ACHIEVE GLOBAL D&I BENCHMARKS

 3.3 (GDIB CATEGORY 3: D&I STRUCTURE AND IMPLEMENTATION, LEVEL 5 BEST PRACTICE) Diversity Networks serve as partners and advise on recruitment, communications, risk management, product and service development, community engagement, and other organizational issues.

 3.8 (GDIB CATEGORY 3: D&I STRUCTURE AND IMPLEMENTATION, LEVEL 4 PROGRESSIVE) Diversity Networks are recognized as credible, valued resources to the organization.

ERGs at Clorox Are a Valued Source of Business Ideas

Erby L. Foster, Jr., Director, Diversity & Inclusion, The Clorox Company, headquartered in Oakland, California, was a keynote speaker at the GDIB San Francisco Bay Area Launch event on April 12. He focused on “The Power of ERGs” emphasizing how valuable the ERGs (Employee Resource Groups, also called Networks in many organizations) are to the Clorox brand. He described the four ERG Phases, which he called a journey: Cultural Awareness, Talent Development, Trusted Advisors and Business Advocates. In the Spring 2017 issue of Savoy, he said: “I’m also proud to say Clorox has a rich variety of diversity-based groups and programs. Not only are they a way for employees to meet and socialize, but we also look to our employee resource groups (ERGs) to sustain our inclusion and diversity efforts while also being a valued source of business ideas. ERGs helped Clorox reach diverse consumers through their cultural insights. Latino was instrumental in the acquisition of NuevaCocina® and launch of Clorox Fraganzia™. Asian expanded our portfolio with acquisition of Soy Vay®, Brita® marketing campaign in Canada, and launch of our Glad MatchWare™. LGBT developed unique marketing campaigns for Burt’s Bees® and Fresh Step®. Black partnered Ebony Magazine with Kingsford® charcoal for a summer grilling campaign.” For additional information, contact Erby at https://www.linkedin.com/in/erby-foster-bb754/

ACTIONS TO HELP ACHIEVE GLOBAL D&I BENCHMARKS

 11.5 (GDIB CATEGORY 11: COMMUNITY, GOVERNMENT RELATIONS, AND SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY, LEVEL 5 BEST PRACTICE) The Organization’s D&I initiatives in the community are treated as more than philanthropy. They are perceived as a core function mainstreamed into organizational strategy.

 11.10 (GDIB CATEGORY 11: COMMUNITY, GOVERNMENT RELATIONS, AND SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY, LEVEL 4 PROGRESSIVE) The organization connects D&I goals with ethics and integrity initiatives, and supports social justice, social cohesion, and economic development.
Unilever Empowers Rural Women in India – Driving Inclusive Growth and Tapping New Markets

Note: The following is summarized from Diversity & Inclusion: Building the Business Case: Stories from India by DIAN India (Diversity & Inclusion in India Network) and Community Business. The GDIB has an alliance with Community Business.

With one in eight people on the planet living in an Indian village, Hindustan Unilever Limited (HUL), enacted a pioneering programme, Project Shakti, which leverages the power of local Indian women to create a new distribution channel for its products. In so doing, it is not only contributing to inclusive growth in India by enhancing opportunities for rural women, but also has built a new rural consumer base. ‘Driven by the philosophy of ‘doing well by doing good,’ HUL gave the women a source of sustainable income as direct-to-consumer retailers. The program was piloted in 2000, enrolling a handful of locale women as “Shakti Ammas.”

HUL products include many well-known brands such as Lux and Lifebuoy and essential household products such as washing-up liquids, soaps, and toothpastes. In selecting women to be Shakti Ammas, they worked closely with local NGOs and consciously chose not to recruit women with large landholdings. They educated the women in concepts of business, including how to keep stock and basic finances. “It has been a long, slow process and has taken many years to establish and build the trust of local communities. However, through continued commitment and investment, the contribution to the sales channel has consistently grown as part of our overall business and by 2013 represented as much as 20 percent of our rural sales. Project Shakti has grown to a network of 48,000 women, with a stated target of 75,000 women by 2015.” Quote from Sanjiv Mehta, CEO & MD, HUL: “Our Project Shakti combines social responsibility, sustainability and business strategy. It is the best way we can give back to society — supporting our cause of ‘empowering underprivileged rural women’ along with making business sense.”

HELP PROMOTE BOOKS BY OUR COLLEAGUES BY WRITING AMAZON (AND OTHER) REVIEWS

Book reviews on Amazon and elsewhere are more than just a nice thing for you to do if you like a book and can see how it can be useful and impactful for others. Spreading the word on good resources in the D&I field are extremely helpful in creating a better world. Here are two recent reviews posted by GDIB Co-author, Alan Richter:

We Can't Talk about That at Work!: How to Talk about Race, Religion, Politics, and Other Polarizing Topics, by Mary-Frances Winters, Berrett-Koehler, 2017

“This is an effective how-to book. About how to talk about polarizing issues at work, where the topics of politics, race, religion, etc., should be dealt with in a civil and respectful manner. Using the Intercultural Development Continuum model and other models, Winters provides much needed direction on how we can listen to one another, find common ground, and build inclusive habits to make this a better world. So timely, given the current challenges to global sustainable development.”

_Inclusive Leadership: The definitive guide to developing and executing an impactful diversity and inclusion strategy, locally and globally_, by Charlotte Sweeney and Fleur Bothwick, FT Publishing, 2016.

“The full title of this new book – Inclusive Leadership: The definitive guide to developing and executing an impactful diversity and inclusion strategy, locally and globally – may be long but it is important because it provides a much-needed systemic and sustainable approach to the topic, covering workforce, workplace, marketplace and community. The experienced authors take one on a journey using their STAR model – Starting out, Taking the leap, Achieving change, and Reaping the rewards. And along the journey they provide many useful examples taken from across sectors and industries. The importance of diversity and inclusion will simply become more and more critical as the world deals with massive demographic, cultural and technological change, and will be crucial if we all wish to prosper in peace. Each chapter has good short summaries and the authors provide sources for all the research quoted.”

FROM AND ABOUT EXPERT PANELISTS

EXPERT PANELIST SIDALIA (SID) G. REEL, Ed.D. TO RECEIVE THE (UC BERKELEY) CHANCELLOR’S OUTSTANDING STAFF AWARD ON APRIL 27

Well deserved!!!! Here is what Sid’s boss, Dr. Na'ilah Suad Nasir, Vice Chancellor, Equity & Inclusion Division, said in the nomination submittal: “Sid is a tireless change agent, working to address issues with campus climate and make UC Berkeley a more equitable and inclusive workplace. Sid is recognized for creating the annual NOW conference, which each year gives hundreds of staff a forum to focus on their career growth. Additionally, last year she established and co-facilitated the “Whiteness, Power and Privilege” study groups, where staff gather monthly to learn more about white identity and its impact on campus and beyond. Recently Sid helped these study groups translate learning to action, crafting a letter of inquiry to UCPD which resulted in study-group members being invited to a swearing-in of officers, and leading to conversations around police training initiatives. Sid was invited to serve on a police hiring committee. While police killings of African Americans have been drawing national outrage, Sid and her study groups have opened new communication channels that will bear fruit for a long time to come. Sid is commended for leveraging limited resources by building collaborative partnerships, recruiting volunteers, and mentoring colleagues. Sid’s efforts have been instrumental in building campus commitment to equity and inclusion, and growing the cohort who contribute to this vitally important work. Her leadership is making UC Berkeley a more welcoming, inclusive and supportive environment. Sid is Director of Staff Diversity at UC Berkeley. Go here http://www.diversitycollegium.org/expertpanelists.php to read her bio.

SOCIAL MEDIA TIPS FOR GDIB
Please Post Now - Share our news and promote D&I best practices by posting the below on your social media platforms:

NEW ACTIVITY POSTED ON GDIB USER TOOLS SITE: D&I APPROACHES INSIGHT AND IMPACT ACTIVITY
A one-page, 20 to 30-minute activity worksheet is now available. The activity is designed to (1) educate participants on the GDIB’s Five Approaches to Diversity & Inclusion and (2) help gain insight into the impact of the similarities and differences between participants’ personal approach to D&I and their organization’s approach. Download now at http://www.diversitycollegium.org/usertools.php.

ASK THE EXPERTS – A Q&A SECTION
Please ask questions you have about the GDIB or anything D&I and we’ll ask answer it for you.
From one of our users: Are we to infer that the numbering of the benchmarks in each category level is a statement of importance? For example, in Category 8: Assessment, Measurement, and Research, is 8.1 considered more important than 8.2 or 8.3 or 8.4?
No – we numbered the benchmarks purely for convenience of talking about them. All the benchmarks in each level (Best Practice, Progressive, Proactive, Reactive, and Inactive) of each category are equal in importance for our purposes. However, in specific organizations you may have reason to consider a certain benchmark more impactful on your organization mission than another.

In addition to sessions of general interest, there are three tracks for the 2017 conference:

- Healing the Divides: Race, Ethnic and National Origin, Gender, Sexual Orientation, Immigrants, and Refugees Face Challenges in our Changing Times
- Cultural Identity: Fresh Perspectives on Multicultural and Global Identity

December 11 to 12, 2017
Toronto, Ontario, CANADA

Walking toward our biases. Championing an inclusive and prosperous Canada.

As Canada celebrates its 150th birthday, it is as important to build for an inclusive and prosperous future as it is to celebrate the past. Our places of work are a microcosm of society. Now more than ever, it is important for corporate champions to step forward and lead the inclusion movement in our organizations. This premier forum is unparalleled in Canada, where executive champions and diversity professionals can learn from diverse perspectives, share great practices and network with D&I thought leaders from across the continent. Beyond the business case, this conference is designed for corporate inclusion champions, executive sponsors, leaders of employee resource groups and talent management professionals who understand the inclusion imperative but want to expand their knowledge of the dimensions and intersections of diversity and unconscious bias so they can help lead the journey in their organization.

Our Program Architect, global sage and Canadian treasure, Laraine Kaminsky, together with the Conference Board’s Director of Inclusive Talent Management Strategies, Ruth Wright, have once again brought together thought leaders and champions from across country and the continent to ensure every dimension of diversity is represented and discussed. Several EPs will be presenting. Presenter announcements coming soon. For more information go to: http://www.conferenceboard.ca/conf/diversity/default.aspx

FORUM ON WORKPLACE INCLUSION
