EDITORIAL

THE OLYMPICS – A MOMENT OF POSITIVE D&I MESSAGING
I write this inspired by the opening ceremony of the Olympics in Rio de Janeiro. Messages of the positive impact of diversity and inclusion abounded. The artistry of the music, song, dance, and design and the movement to end what divides us and focus on what brings us together were strong. And an additional beauty of the show was that it was done with much less expenditures than previous Olympic ceremonies out of respect for the current economic condition of the country. And the show was spectacular. I also felt a sense of pride that our first two locally sponsored GDIB Tenth Anniversary Launch Events were held in São Paulo, Brazil’s largest city, and Tokyo, Japan site of the 2020 Olympics. In a time when there is much hate in our world, it was wonderful to feel the joy of the opening ceremony, the connection with our D&I work and the hope for the world when we can all come together to celebrate excellence, balancing healthy competition and collaboration.

STORIES OF D&I BEST PRACTICES
Please send us your stories.

ACTIONS TO HELP ACHIEVE THESE D&I BENCHMARKS
 правительственное 5.3 (GDIB Category 5: Benefits, Work-life Integration, and Flexibility. LEVEL 5 BEST PRACTICES). The organization accepts and recognizes diversity in language and accents, dress, religion, physical appearance, and non-traditional schedules as fully legitimate.

izador 5.16 (GDIB Category 5: Benefits, Work-life Integration, and Flexibility. LEVEL 3. PROACTIVE). Flexibility in personal appearance and one’s workspace is allowed for most employees, provide it is done in a culturally sensitive way.
“NO NUDITY” IS ONE ORGANIZATION’S ENTIRE DRESS CODE – WHAT DOES THAT HAVE TO DO WITH D&I?

Granted, the headline above is provocative. It’s a line in a Point – Counter Point feature, Should Dress Codes Be More Relaxed? by Maddie Grant and Tess C. Taylor in the June, 2016 issue of HR Magazine. Grant’s point is that dress codes need to be more relaxed. She says, “authenticity and individual expression (hallmarks of social media) are becoming more important at work.” She aligns today’s digital work and mindset with designing software that is customizable and continuous improvement and makes the point that “allowing workers to wear what they want is consistent with this mindset.” Good point that is consistent inclusion. On the other hand, Taylor says dress codes should not be relaxed because they (1) establish the brand, (2) have a strong influence on work performance, (3) formal dress codes create stronger work cultures, (4) dress codes help establish consistent work practices, and (5) employees don’t mind dress codes as much as you think.” But neither mentions the D&I aspects such as a position on “ethnic dress” or opposition to T-shirts with messages that others may find offensive. As D&I practitioners we need to engage in the dress code conversation to help ensure inclusion for all.

ANNOUNCING GDIB EDITION FOR HIGHER AND TERTIARY EDUCATION PROVIDED BY ACPA – YOU ARE INVITED TO THE LAUNCH EVENT SEPTEMBER 9 IN WASHINGTON, D.C.

We are excited to announce that the ACPA—College Student Educators International has approved and adopted a customized edition of the GDIB for Higher and Tertiary Education Institutions. Like the general GDIB, it is free of charge and requires signing a permission agreement to use it. It will be launched on September 9 in Washington, D.C. See page 6 below for specifics about the launch. You are invited. Please RSVP.

The GDIB was customized under the direction of GDIB Expert Panelist Cindi Love -- see her bio at http://www.diversitycollegium.org/expertpanelists.php ACPA was founded in 1924 in Berkeley, California as a student placement association which evolved over time to be the leading higher education association specializing in student learning and development. ACPA now operates in Washington, DC and has published the Journal of College Student Development (JCSD) since 1951. JCSD holds the distinction of publishing more research on race than any other Tier 1 higher education journal. ACPA core values include equity and inclusion and upholding these values is part of the ACPA Code of Ethics. More than 7,000 campuses in the world employ professionals in student affairs/life/services. ACPA is dedicated to rigorous research that can be translated into effective practices for campuses to increase diversity, assert and realize human dignity, infuse social justice and inclusion. ACPA will encourage campuses and higher education associations to adopt the GDIB adapted for higher education.

The changes include those in terminology -- such as changing the word organization to institution in several places and the word customer to student in others. In addition, Categories 12 and 13 (product development and marketing) have a few more changes. In a few days this edition will be available at www.diversitycollegium.org in the Global D&I Benchmarks section. You will see an ACPA landing page when you scroll down. The ACPA edition is available to anyone who signs the special permission agreement. The terms of use are the same as for the general GDIB.
EP CHARLOTTE SWEENEY AND FLEUR BOTHWICK INCLUSIVE LEADERSHIP BOOK AVAILABLE 4 OCTOBER 2016

Expert Panelist, Charlotte Sweeney, CEO Charlotte Sweeney Associates, Ltd., and Fleur Bothwick, Director D&I EMEIA for EY, both located in the UK, announce the availability of their book. “Much has been said and written about the real meaning of a diverse workforce and the benefits of everyone feeling included. Over the last couple of decades, we have seen many organisations grappling with the challenges of building a truly diverse and inclusive workforce, but there are few that seem to have achieved sustainable long-term change. Academics tell us that 70% of change programmes fail because they are not underpinned by change management principles. A key challenge in the D&I field is that all too often, organisations are too heavily reliant on a collection of initiatives such as networks and minority leadership programmes. This new book, 'Inclusive Leadership - the definitive guide to developing and executing an impactful diversity and inclusion strategy locally and globally' aims to help organisations achieve the change that they are looking for in a straightforward, highly pragmatic style. Looking at all aspects of business, it works through the whole employee life cycle, considerations for how you go to market and managing a diverse supply chain. It introduces a framework that any sized organisation can use, to help them think about where they are on their D&I journey and where they want to be. There are also examples of leading thinking and good practice from around the world.” The book can be pre-ordered from Amazon at https://www.amazon.co.uk/Inclusive-Leadership-Definitive-Developing-Executing/dp/1292112727. Or go to your country Amazon to search for the book. Amazon US lists it for $46 and free shipping if you have Prime. Events are currently being planned in locations around the world to promote the book. If you would like to discuss further opportunities please contact Charlotte and Fleur at info@charlottesweeney.com

NEWS, REQUESTS, AND IDEAS

PLEASE HELP IN GETTING THE WORD OUT FOR A NEW RESEARCH PROJECT ON ETHICAL DECISION-MAKING THAT CO-AUTHOR ALAN RICHTER IS CONDUCTING IN PARTNERSHIP WITH THE PROJECT MANAGEMENT INSTITUTE (PMI)

The Project Management Institute (PMI) has partnered with QED Consulting to create a survey to explore global responses to ethical issues and dilemmas, and examine the influence of culture as well as gender, age, education, profession, etc., on ethical decision-making. The survey results will illuminate differences in ethical decision-making across diversity dimensions, specifically in the workplace. We wish to gather data from all around the world, so please share this invitation and link to take the survey. It will only take about 15-20 minutes to complete. We will post findings on the PMI website once we have sufficient data analyzed. To take the survey, please go to: www.research.net/r/globalethicsresearch Please only take it once, but share the link freely. The survey will stay open to the end of 2016.
